

The Alliance in partnership with P4 Consulting proudly offers the Professional Development Program

The Alliance's and P4's Professional Development Program will provide the same high quality education found at Duke University, Denver University, and other leading business schools, right here in our back yard. The program is designed for front line and mid-level managers, enabling them to grow into better and more advanced leaders for your company. Using experiential teaching techniques, this program will build self-awareness into managerial styles which will lead to stronger team leadership and increased organizational effectiveness.

The Professional Development Program will help your organization:

- Increase the ability to hire from within your company
- Diminish turnover and recruitment costs
- Access quality training without the costs of travel time
- Enhance productivity by cultivating leadership skills
- Avoid the need to create your own training program

A strong talent base makes for a successful business, satisfied employees, and a healthy community. To learn more about the program curriculum and how you can register for the Fall 2015 program contact the Alliance or P4 Consulting.
